International Conference on Live Coding 2023 - Submission Templates

In this package, you can find the instructions and submission templates for proposals in the following presentation categories:

- Community Reports (written or video)
- Papers (short or long)
- Live Performances (concert or Algorave)
- Workshops (short or long)
- Video Gallery (video documentation of performances/installations/etc.)

Instructions

The working templates for each category are available in two formats: in Markdown (also known as Commonmark) format, and Microsoft Word.

- Independent of which template you choose to work with, please make sure you submit your contribution as a PDF file!

- PDF files must be attached to the OpenConf Submission AFTER submitting the initial form. Please read instructions on the submission page to make sure your attachment is received.

Please see below for template instructions specific to each presentation category.

Markdown / Commonmark templates

With the Markdown template, you write your paper as a text file, with simple markup to specify formatting, citations and the inclusion of images. This file (README.md) is itself formatted in the Markdown format.

To convert Markdown files to PDF You need Pandoc and a LaTeX distribution installed. In addition:

- Papers template: for more information please refer to the template itself. Because the template is a bit more complex, we have included a tutorial on how to convert the Markdown file to PDF.
- Other templates: to convert basic Markdown files to PDF, run the following command:

pandoc your_proposal.md -o your_proposal.pdf

Microsoft Word templates

This template comes in the form of an MS Word document, where you replace the example text with that of your paper. Please follow examples for sections, figures, and citations.

This template should also work for LibreOffice or Google Docs.

Community Reports

Community Reports can be submitted in 2 different formats: written or video. Note that ALL Community Reports will be published in the Conference proceedings, and video reports will be automatically included in the online Video Gallery. Peer review notes may still be provided before a final version is collected in a format suitable for publishing.

Written Reports

Written reports must use the templates for papers, with 3 important differences:

- Length: 2-6 pages
- "Abstract" to be replaced with "Summary" (max. 300 words)
- Citations may be unnecessary

Note the .md template for Papers includes additional instructions for exporting to PDF, as explained above.

Video Reports

Video reports will use the templates provided in the Community Reports folder. The templates for Community Reports in video format include several sections with size limitations:

- Description: max. 150 words
- Key Contributor Bio(s): max. 150 words each.

Video Community Reports may be up to 15 minutes in length and must be submitted in the form of a stable URL provided in the submission file.

Please complete the full document and render your submission to PDF before uploading.
